NEWS SUMMARY.

A. T. STAWART'S income last year was $1,276, 4753 72.

Archbishop Spalding has so far recovered from his recent illness that he expects to accompany Bishop McCroskey to Rome next May. All Ireland seems to be emigrating to America. The steamers cannot begin to accommodate the arowd of people seeking passage to this country.

Several Portland merchants have recovered by law $2016 from the Grand Trunk Bailway, for unreasonable detention in the shipment of a quantity of flour from the West.

Gen. Sully's commission recently received the visit of a band of Sioux Indians; one of the number confessed to having been implicated in the massacre of the garrison at Fort Phil Kearney. An exchange, in a column editorial, asks: "Does it pay to be a " roman?" We are not able to answer the query; but whether it pays or not, we are unable to see how those unfortunate creatures can help themselves.

A female pickpocket, who was being taken prison by an officer in Philadelphia, on Tuesday, hailed a gentleman in a passing carriage, acking protection from intended outrage. The gentleman attacked the officer and the woman escaped. A college for women is to be added to the edu cational institutions of New York, by a new charter granted to the Trustees of the Rutgers Female Institute. This new enterprise, when established will give to women the advantages of a full course of collegiate instruction.

A Northern paper says: "An unusually large number of acres are being planted to corn in the Southern States this season, and the probabilities are that large quantities will be harvested for exportation. Reports from those represent that many women are aiding in the fields." Child murder has assumed an epidemic form and from all parts of the country, particularly in New England, the telegraphic wiros are burdene with announcements of unparallelled cruelty and death to poor little children by merciless parents and guardians.

ment lies. The night he died the queen called s young widow, who was in her household, to si with ner, and when all was over the queen said: "No one now lives that can call me Victoria." There are three ex-Confederate naval officer editing newspapers in the South: Lieutenant Kern, of the Weldon State; Lieutenant J. R. Eggleston of the Mobile (Ala.) Tribune, and Admiral Ra-PHAEL SEPTES, of the Memphis (Tenn.) Appeal. All distinguished officers of the old navy, and most accomplished gentlemen. A man who was digging in a lot in Patterson, N

J., brought to light thirty one copper plates on various banks of Each plate was carefully wrapped up in a separate piace of paper, and the whole was labelled "18 km; On nearly all of them the amount of the note is left blank, so that the plate could be used for any denomination. They are all on State, and mostly on New England banks. Bev. HENRY BORHM, of the New York Conference, and LEBAN CHARK, of the New York East Confer-

The Liberte, however, points out in exciting words that France mind manufain her independence by showing to Count Ersmann that "if there is a German nation, which the people are determined to defend and tear to pieces the treaties of 1815. If necessary.

The postoffice clerks at Virginia City, Nevada, only across a summerious looking box partly onen came across a suspecious locking box partly open, in the mail pratter; recently, and of them thrust his pencil into it; whereupon out jumped a huge tarantula, which run tories the distributing table and fell to the floor, where it was summarily dispatched. On inspection two tarantulas were found in the box, which suffered a like site, regardless of postoffice laws.

From 1851 to 1862 two hundred and thirty-two persons were poisoned in France by arechic, one hundred and seventy by phospharus used in the manufacture of matches, seventy seven by the sulphate of capper, or blue vitried, thirty-three by verdigria thirty-by sumburio soid (oil of vitriol), weathy the by sumburio soid (oil of vitriol), weathy the by sumburios, six by optum. and six by hellebors. Eighteen other poisonings were effected by means of various other poisons. Means of various other poisons. Reports from Arkaniss are to the affect that while the recent floods in that State were very disastrous, the byerflow will not prevent the putting in of large drops of outton and corn. While it has been customers to plant cotton in April, the best that was raised last year was not planted until May. Should the sammer prove a dry one, the crops will be better for the overflow of this spring,

If the French press be not free by law it at least takes more liberty than formerly. M. EMILE DE GRANDIN'S paper ventures to say: "France buying Luxemburg after having been able to conquer the Rhine in 1866, has the effect of a hunter who, failing to kill anything, stops at the market on his way home to buy some game. And to think that M. ms Buraneux even contests the purchase of the false rune." Truth, honor, compels us to say that the Liberty is ence more in quod.

Hon. Henny Harstyn, United States Commissioner of Education, will in a day or two issue a circular calling for scourate information of the designation, history and present condition of every institution and agency of education in the United States, and of the name, residence and special work of every person in the administration, in struction and management of the same. All this information must necessarily be of a voluntary character, as the department has no power to comexhibitore at the Paris Exposition resolved "that the services of attendants should not be required" on the Lord's Day; and they trust their fellow exhibitors will unanimously agree in carrying out this resolution." It is reported that this request has been received with much amusement as well as astonishment by those who control the Exposition. Sunday is regarded as likely to be their best day, as it is that which the people of most of the Continental nations devote specially to sight-secing and recreation.

The people in Aritish Honduras are greatly disturbed with Indian raids. A writer to one of the New York papers says of these invasions by the aborigines : "What we want is a body of men like your Texas rangers, who can find and whip an Indian. Une of the largest land holders has offered one hunded scree of land to each actual settler. The latest Indian raid was at Guinneygrass, where they took several persons. They come across the Rio Hondo and return before we know they are here, and as the English Government will not allow us to invade the soil of Mexico, they set us at NORMAN WIARD has made a proposal to the War Department to construct an 8-inch rifle which shall stand all the following tests, or be considered a failure; "He will fire sixty pounds of powder and a four hundred pound shot. Then twenty rounds nd shot. Then he will explode a shell at the bottom of the bore, then a shell in succession at successive distances toward the muzzle. Then he will simultaneously explode the bore filled with shells; and finally will fire thirty pounds of powder behind a shell so fixed in the bore as not to be forced out by firing off the charge. The cost of the gun, mounted, to be Among the private soldiers now on duty at the Jackson Barracks, below the city of New Orleans,

CHARLESTON. THURSDAY MORNING, MAY 2, 1867.

PAY UP.

We are sending out at present, a great numper of bills for subscription and advertising, and most earnestly request that all those who may receive them, will have the kindness to make prompt remittances. A great many of these accounts have been standing for a year and more, and it is absolutely necessary now that they should be paid.

One of the evils of a military government indoubtedly is the uncertainty which belongs to its action-that is to say, people never know when circumstances may require, in the opinion of those who administer it, orders which may affect existing laws. And this uncertainty always exerts an unfavorable influence upon the business of a country. But we ought to recollect that in a Government like ours even military authority is modified by the atmosphere in which it exists, and we have no rea son to anticipate such an exercise of absolute power as has marked Austrian rule in Milan and Venice, or Russian rule in Warsaw. Like every other power on this continent military power will, to a great extent, represent the opinion and the prejudices of the people, and depend as much after all upon popular sympathy as armed strength. Like all other old governmental forms, we have adopted its principle but have very much modified its action.

We think, therefore, that however anxious we may be for its removal, and however actively we may employ those judicious and proper neans by which it will be rendered unnecessary, our people ought to be on their guard against the exaggerations of its exercise, which public rumor is always suggesting. Every now and then people allow themselves to be flurried and excited by the rumor that something very extreme is going to be done, and the expression of irresponsible and subordinate officials is reported from mouth to mouth. to the discomfort of men who really want to attend quietly to their own business. Now, it seems to us that things have advanced far enough under the Reconstruction Act for sensible men to form a tolerable definite idea of what are its purposes, and how it will operate. Circumstances may, of course, occur which may render some extraordinary exercise of military power necessary. It will be much to be regretted if this should be so, but we do not see the probability of any such occurrence

The whole State seems determined quietly and thoroughly to do its part, and the recent public meetings in Pickens, Lexington, Richland, Sumter and Marion all indicate the prevland, Surnter and Marion all indicate the prevalence of kindly and healthy feeling, and justify the anticipation not only that there will be tify the anticipation not only that there will be the city of the business. Inquire of the and black will move harmoniously together toward a common result.

should wait for actual orders before they believe in the probability of mischievous interference in their daily habits and avocations, and that they should feel secure that as long as they see the civil and municipal officers of the State doing their duty, such officers will continue in the proper discharge of their important functions.

Nor should we be made uneasy by the re ports of violent opinions which the telegraph may seatter over the country from prominent men, In times like these there always will be men with distempered livers and very bad temners, and the more violent they are, the more likely is it that the weaker they feel. We think nothing in the history of the last Congress clearer than that the men who claimed to be leaders were the mere followers of public opinion, and that just as surely as the great nass of public opinion manifests its wish that this vexed question of reconstruction shall be closed, just so soon will these leaders find ample reason for following again. Mr. STEvens may be an exception. His career, however it is to be read in history, is drawing to its close. He has done his work, such as it is His peculiar bitterness and vindictiveness belong to the individuality of his character, and as he looks forward to no large future, it is very easy to see why he should be unwilling to the very last to sacrifice these characteristics which have made him noticeable in life, and which will give interest to his historical por-we have begun with the work of reconstruction, upon the conviction that the whole country wants peace and restoration, and will sustain this act if fairly complied with as a finalityif we will devote our energies to the business of every day life, which is hard enough and large enough before us, without listening to or believing every idle rumor that this or that extraordinary thing is to be done, we will find ourselves at the end of the year nearer to a solution of our difficulties than we could reaonably have hoped two months ago, and that solution which we believe will offer to all our people new and brighter prospects of success ful industry and prosperous life.

REGISTRATION IN NEW ORLEANS. The New Orleans Times, which has strenu ously advocated reconstruction under the laws of Congress, complains earnestly of the course pursued by the registrars there. It says that more than a half of the white citizens fully qualified under the law are turned away, while every Radical who applies is immediately accopted and registered. Naturalized citizens are not only required to produce their papers, but to leave them with the registrars, with a very dim prospect of ever getting them back. Old citizens who have lived in the city a quarter of a century are turned away because they have been, at some remote period of their lives. School Directors or Aldermen under the city government, and are suspected of having sympathized with the rebellion. But few naturalized citizens are registered on any terms except that of adherence to the Radicals. That virtue will purge all vices. Renegades, who fought in the Confederate ranks and deserted when the cause became desperate and joined the Radicals-even some who were punished by Butler and Banks for their rebellious excesses-and who possessed the disqualification of baving grade of Brigadier. Finding, no doubt, a charm held Federal or State offices previous to the in military hier he re-entered the service and en- war, are admitted to registration without queslisted as a high private. But here's the rub. By tions. Alderman Kaisen, an old and solid cit-take that oath are liable to a prosecution for him as a voter on such terms, and held his case under advisement. It is very evident that the registrars exceed their duty when they prevent such men as Alderman Kaiser, and others a denial of justice they will assuredly be held responsible.
